You are working on a project and something is of concern CPRS to you that you think may be an ethical issue, but not sure. What do you do? PROFESSIONA START STANDARI DECISION TREE DON'T Is it a legal issue? Might laws be broken? KNOW Seek Legal Advice NO management know that you believe this to be a legal issue and provide suggestions for an alternative approach. Does the issue contravene the spirit of the principles of the CPRS Code of Professional Standards ___ YES ____. NO Do not proceed with project, at least until you have discussed the issue with Do you feel prevented, or inhibited, from talking openly with client/management/colleagues? client/management and resolved the issue. YES Discuss with a designated Code of Professional Standards Could this issue damage your reputation or that of Advisor from CPRS College of Fellows for informal advice; then create alternative the organization for which you are working? -- NO ---YES -of your assessment of reputational risk and suggest an alternative approach. Consider sharing the Code with client/management if helpful. client/management disagree with your resolution of any issues, your alternative approach, or revised course of --- YES ------ NO --reasoning from client/management and resolve any issues to mutual satisfaction. YES You can proceed If not achievable, with the project consider removing yourself from the incorporating any agreed-upon project. adjustments and stay alert to any developments.